- health, including any medical condition, health and sickness
- biometric data
- criminal convictions and offences.

When you apply for certain products with us, such as an insurance or life planning product, we may contact your medical professional representative with your consent to obtain information or confirm a pre-existing medical condition you have informed us of, but we will always explain why we need the information.

How do we collect special category data?

In almost all cases, we'll ask for your explicit consent before collecting special category data unless we are required to by law, there is an overriding public interest, or where we believe you or someone else may be at risk.

If you contact us containing this type of information, then we'll assume that you're happy for us to record it – unless you tell us not to. If someone acting on your behalf provides this information, we'll record what's been provided and who gave it to us.

You have the right to withdraw your consent to us recording and using special category data at any time. This will not affect any use we have made of the information before you withdrew your consent.

Personal data relating to children

We offer savings accounts for children which they can open themselves. The age at which they can do this will depend on the type of account. Any account opened for a child under age 8 can only be held in trust.

If a child opens an account themselves, we will obtain personal data and identification from them (or from their parent/guardian on their behalf). If a child opens an account when they are 16, we will verify their identity electronically, but if this is not possible, we will ask for identification, such as a passport or birth certificate from them.

If an account is opened on the child's behalf, for example by a parent or family member, we will obtain identification for the child, such as a passport or birth certificate, from the person opening the account in order to verify the child's identity. If they are not the child's parent or guardian, we may ask for confirmation they have permission to open an account for the child.

We do not contact children under 16 with details of our products, services and offers, but we may send them birthday greetings if they have an account with us.

Personal data relating to children may be included in applications for products or services we offer to adults, for example where dependants are mentioned in a mortgage application or for an insurance product.

We have produced a child friendly privacy notice to assist children in understanding how we use their personal data and to explain their rights.

This creates what's known as a 'financial association' at credit reference agencies. So, you should always discuss and agree this with other applicants before disclosing their information to check that they're happy to proceed. Information about any financial associations will be shared with other lenders if either of you make a credit application in the future – whether it's in just your name or together with someone else. There are three key credit reference agencies that we use. ### How do we use special category data?

We'll only ask for this type of personal data when we absolutely need to and use it for limited circumstances to:

- Understand and accommodate any additional needs or requirements that you might have. For example, to help with any issues around your health, memory, caring responsibilities or any challenges you're facing in life.

- Understand any details about your health that we need to know for the purpose of insurance policies or investment products.

Change of purpose

We will only use your personal data for the purposes for which we collected it, unless we reasonably consider that we need to use it for another reason and that reason is compatible with the original purpose.

If we need to use your personal data for an unrelated purpose, we will notify you and we will explain the legal basis which allows us to do so. Please note that we may process your personal data without your knowledge or consent, in compliance where this is required or permitted by law.

Automated decision making

There may be circumstances where we use automated decision making using your personal data. We use automated decision making to check that we can enter into an agreement with you, and also carry out our legal and regulatory obligations. Sometimes, it's required by law (e.g. when complying with UK money laundering regulations).

When you request a Decision in Principle and/or apply for a mortgage with us, you will be taking the steps necessary to enter into a contract with us.

This process involves reviewing your application with the use of financial models, automated systems provided by Credit Reference Agencies (CRAs) and against our full lending criteria. This is to help us better understand your mortgage application and to assess the affordability of the products and services you apply for.

When we do this the CRAs will keep a record of our search, whether or not you proceed with a full mortgage application. This is known as a credit footprint. They do this so that you can see who has looked at your credit report, when it was looked at and why. This record may also be seen by other lenders and could affect your ability to obtain future credit.

We will use automated decision making to:

- To assess your application and check if we can approve you for credit, to make sure that we're lending responsibly.
- To assess if we can offer you a financial product and work out the level of interest that you'll pay.
- To check if someone's making a fraudulent application or if there's activity on your account that needs further review. This is so we can protect your money and protect you from financial crime.
- To decide if you are, or continue to be, eligible for the product or service you've chosen.

What information do we use to make these decisions?

For automated decision making, we use information that we've collected or hold about you from your applications. Sometimes, we might also use information from other sources such as credit reference or fraud prevention agencies – but we check this against the information you give us.
